We want to read your words!
Northern New England Review is currently seeking submissions.

Please submit no more than once per submission period and submit only in one genre. You may submit up to three poems, one fiction piece (the word count should not exceed 1,500 words), or up to two creative nonfiction pieces (the word count for the entire submission should not exceed 1,500 words). Our call for submissions ends on October 31st.

Prose should be double-spaced and in standard font. Please indicate genre on the prose piece as well as in your cover letter. All poems should be in one document with no more than one poem per page.

We are accepting email submissions at this time. Send your submission as an email attachment to NNER@franklinpierce.edu. In the Subject field of your email, write the following: Submission - Genre - Your Last Name (so, Subject: Submission - CNF - Cumberbatch). Send your work as either a Word .doc or PDF email attachment. Write your cover letter within the body of the email. In your cover letter, be sure to let us know your association with northern New England (Vermont, New Hampshire, and Maine). You do not have to currently live in one of these states, but you should have some connection to this region. Include your contact information, and be sure to also include a short bio (under 60 words) within the body of the email.

We will send out acceptances and rejections through email. You can expect to hear from us within three months. Our payment is two contributor copies.

Good luck! We look forward to reading your work!
